Q4 - What part of this training was the most valuable?

What part of this training was the most valuable?

Approaches to working with teenage girls and the question/answer time

The tips on working with difficult girls

I feel education about Megan Meier was the most valuable.

Hearing from someone who has done this work for such a long period of time.

I liked and learned from the entire subject. I'm glad that it was offered.

how to engage teen urban girls of color

The examples of conversations and backgrounds were most valuable for me

I really enjoyed all of it. It was great to have validation of experiences that Angela had when thinking about case load.

vignettes

Stories and personal examples

The input and responses from the audience.

the training was very basic so there was not a part that was most valuable for me

I liked the very end where there were practical ways to engage with the girls.
The activities and resources.

Honestly, the different activities Angela went through at the end.

The in-session activities

Presenting what has worked for the presenter when she works with teen girls

The activities and resources.

the strategies and case study

Loved hearing about her real life situations and cases

Case studies and input of ideas

Examples

TEST

Q5 - How could the developers make this a more valuable training for you professionally?

How could the developers make this a more valuable training for you profess...

Maybe provide more real world cases for examples of what helped and what didn't when trying to engage with teenagers

It was great. I felt bad that Angela had internet issues.

The trainers did a phenomenal job, and it exceeded my expectations.

Make the training longer, I feel like a lot more could have been covered.

More vignettes about girls and what they are faced with from their perspective.

was on target

I don't really see anything that could make it more valuable. In person would have been awesome but given the time we live in I understand things have to change. Maybe the girls could also be included in the zoom as well.

Would have loved to meet Angela in person but completely understand with Covid-19

more focus on interventions

Nothing I can think of

I think talking more about the reasons these girls have negative attitudes. I think the impact of stress and poverty on their attitudes need more development. The video on twerking (which was more than I'd ever seen before and all I want to see) was helpful. How about what they are watching on Youtube, what they are reading, what they see in their neighborhoods, how they get their local and world news (if anything).

have urban apply to urban areas versus race and identify techniques for building a relationship with kids from urban areas along with techniques

I would like to see more data given and discussion about "why" urban girls have "attitudes"

I work in education that builds relationships and helps students with their emotional/mental/social growth, so to make this training more valuable for me would be to give various scenarios for white educators connecting and growing with students of color.

How could the developers make this a more valuable training for you profess...

Greater focus on what to do in therapy, or how to work to change (or empower them to work to change) the systemic issues.. I'm a social worker- I know all the facts about the connections between poverty and stress and systemic issues.

After covid redo

Indicate which slide she was moving on to, for those that could not access the presentation by computer.

Provide more interactive opportunities

it was v good as it is no suggestions-good presentation

Audio was not the best

TEST

Q6 - Did the PowerPoint enhance the presentation? Please elaborate.

Did the PowerPoint enhance the presentation? Please elaborate.

Yes to give visual aid and reinforce the speaker's points

Yes -- great slides!

I was unable to locate the PowerPoint on my device. Therefore, I only listened to the training.

Yes!

Yes it did. But it was a lot to print off. A printer-friendly version would also help.

yes

Yes, having a visual document helps for me to understand the discussion

Yes, having pictures and examples helped a lot.

Very much

yes having visuals/summary for information being discussed

I found the powerpoint to be informative and it added to the presentation

No, speaker read almost the whole thing. It's when she diverted from it with personal experiences that helped the most.

yes because the audio was not always working. the powerpoint covered the entire presentation and could have just been read yes and no. since the internet was acting up, it is difficult to judge. I would have liked to see the videos.

In our training we were having issues with internet so I don't want to say it enhanced or hindered the training. We got the presentation emailed to us so if there was something missed, we at least have access to go back to those slides; which is very beneficial!

Yes, when it was working. But it sounds like that couldn't be helped, because the host experienced storms the night before. However, the printout of the slides was missing some slides and had duplicates of others.

yes wish the videos could have worked

Yes, I could only access the presentation by phone (my organization does not use Zoom, we use WebEx), so being able to download the slides was helpful.

Did the PowerPoint enhance the presentation? Please elaborate.

yes

Yes- good visuals and videos

Yes, it was helpful to look over before hand as well

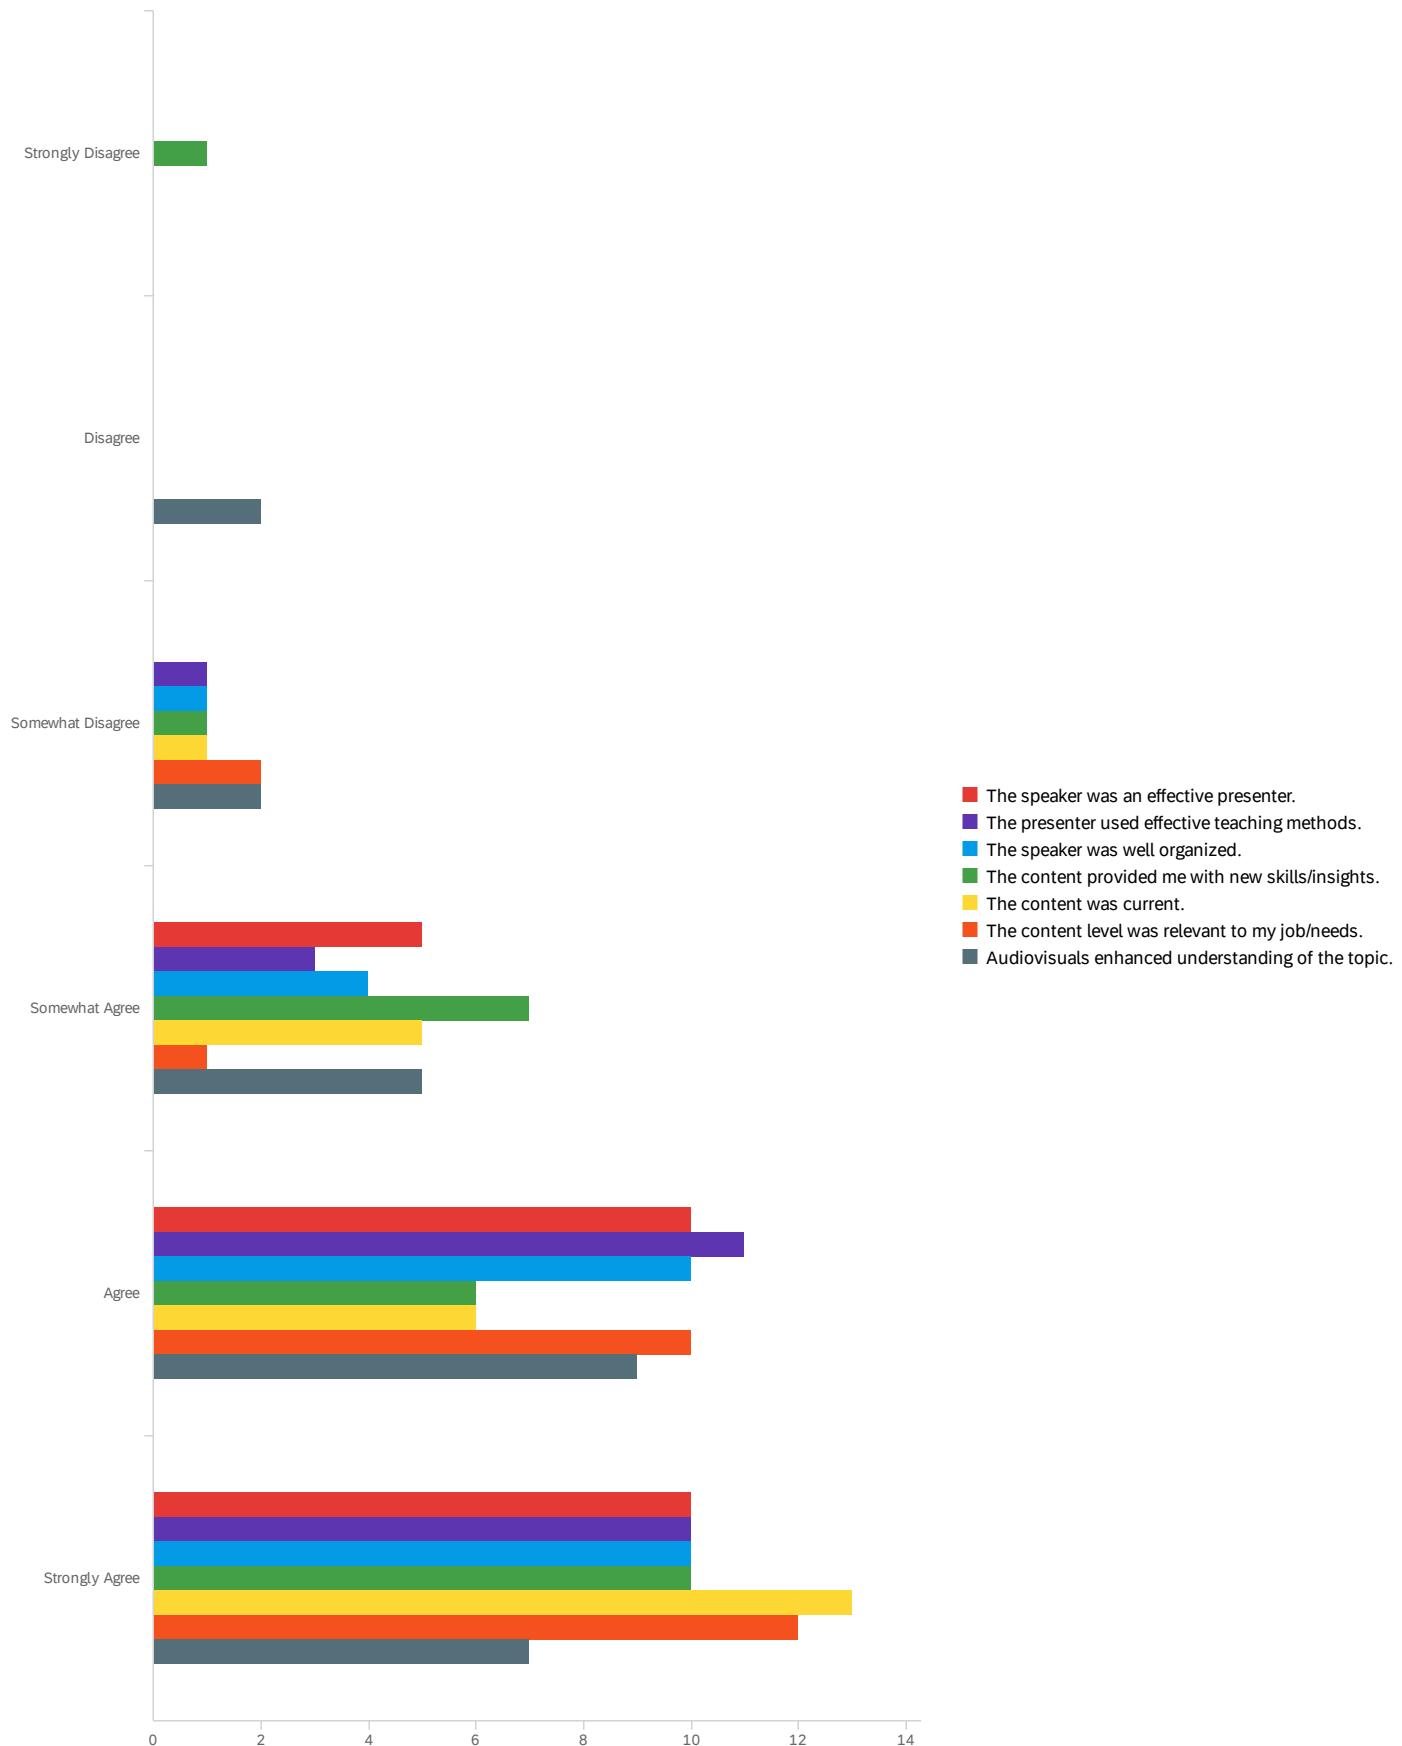

Yes. It's always good to have visuals and it serves as a good reminder to refer back to when considering information and alternatives.

[Field-presenter] Comments:

Great job!

Thank you so very much! I loved this training!

I think that online seminars are a tricky thing to facilitate- especially when there are technical difficulties.

enjoyed the workshop and will be valuable in my counseling work

To no fault of anyone, technology was slow

Thank you for presenting on this topic.

It's no fault of her's the internet wasn't working. I live in St. Louis and glad she was safe from the tornado.

N/A

I would like to hear more about this topic, perhaps with a greater focus on interventions and improving social justice.

none at this time

None

she was great!

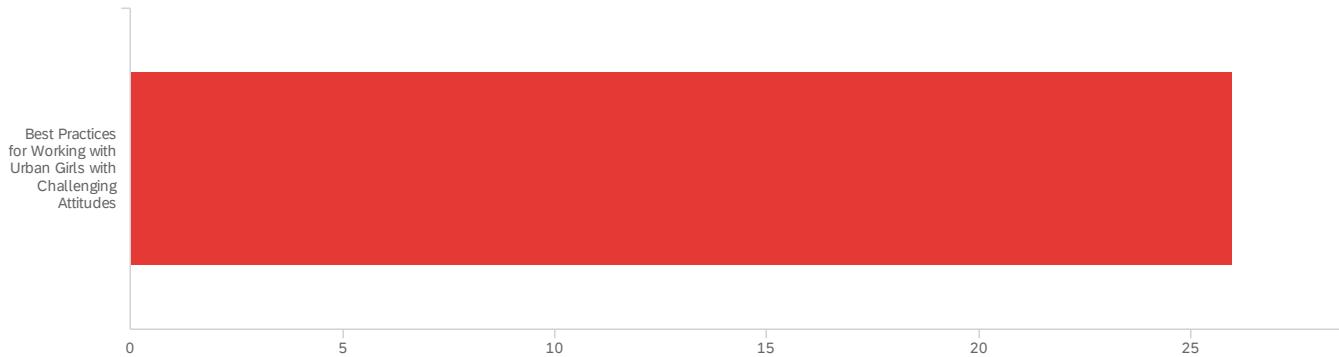

too bad the internet was spotty, but overall a great presentation- like how Angela talked about real life cases and gave examples and also shared activities, books, etc

Well done
